Take a closer look at the Conference on College Composition and Communication

CCCC is the leading organization in writing studies, offering not only the largest meeting of writing specialists in the world every spring but also a relevant and strategic repository of resources, research, and networking channels to help you be your best.

- CCCC’s extensive grants and awards program provides opportunities to be recognized for your scholarship, to apply for funds for your next research project, or to receive travel support to learn from and with your colleagues.

- College Composition and Communication maintains a space for thoughtful examination of current issues in the field.

- CCCC sponsors advocacy efforts, inviting you to engage with legislative and regulatory issues that matter to you at the federal, state, and local levels.

There’s a lot we can do together as members of CCCC. The first step is simple. If you’re not a member, join CCCC by subscribing to College Composition and Communication today, and if you are a member, share the benefits of CCCC by telling a friend.

WHY WE ARE IN KANSAS CITY

We’re here because you’re here. As “All In” partners with the composition community we made the decision to attend this year’s conference as we typically do. But we know this isn’t a typical meeting. We want you to know that Bedford/St. Martin’s and all of Macmillan Learning are strongly committed to promoting inclusion, diversity, tolerance, and social justice. And as longtime educational publishers, our continuing support of composition and literature instructors extends to everyone.

Follow the hashtag #BSM4C18, to see our full range of events for this year’s conference.

And we encourage you to visit our community site for English instructors (community.macmillanlearning.com) to share your thoughts about teaching techniques and classroom issues.

Greetings from the
2018 PROGRAM CHAIR

Welcome to Kansas City, the site of the 69th Annual Convention of the Conference on College Composition and Communication, a conference of the National Council of Teachers of English. We’ve had quite a ride this year, a ride that almost kept us from meeting. For good reasons, we have been doing some deep reflections about CCCC and our annual convention, and how we might change ourselves for the better. While many of us have already begun this long and difficult process, our first opportunity together is here in Kansas City. I welcome you and invite you to do this laboring and languaging together, especially with those you do not know, in order to transform CCCC and each other. Most of all, I call on all of us to be compassionate and caring to each other and ourselves as we do this hard but necessary reflective and transformative work.

Our theme this year, “Languaging, Laboring, and Transforming,” is in many ways appropriate for the kind of language laboring toward structural and personal transforming that has become important for us to do since August 2017 (although we’ve needed to do this work for much longer). After the passage of Senate Bill 43 and the numerous instances of police violence against Black citizens in Missouri, the NAACP issued a travel advisory for the state. After several hard discussions and reaching out to local chapters of the NAACP, the executive committee of CCCC voted to continue with its plans to hold our annual convention here. You can read the statement on the decision to hold our convention, the update on the decision describing the factors that went into the decision, and the helpful joint caucus statement that urged us to action here: http://cccc.ncte.org/cccc/sept-2017-cccc.

I’m excited about the opportunity for change that the travel advisory offers us this year. It gives more of us reason to labor and transform CCCC for socially just reasons, for reasons that can make our organization and annual convention more equitable and less cloaked in its historical whiteness. This is a social justice move that I urge us all to be a part of, even if we disagree about what changes are needed or how we might make them. What we all can agree upon is our unified commitment to the health, prosperity, and success of each other and our students.

But CCCC is not new to such social justice work. Recent themes suggest this: 2017’s “Cultivating Capacity, Creating Change,” 2016’s “Writing Strategies for Action,” 2013’s “The Public Work of Composition,” and 2004’s “Making Composition Matter: Students, Citizens, Institutions, Advocacy.” The difference this year is that the structures of our annual convention are different, and we have an exigency created by the NAACP’s travel advisory. Perhaps the biggest difference this year is that there are more of us who are coming to Kansas City with the explicit intention to labor for transformation, to do social justice work together at our convention. The
The difference in our work now is to understand the evidence of racism that we see around us as separate from our individual and the organization’s expressed intentions or values. That is, a person or an organization can mean well, yet still do unjust things. Thus I urge us to use our time together and the new structures in place at this year’s convention to examine and reflect upon the evidence of racism and white supremacy in CCCC and in our own professional lives and practices in order to change things for the better. We must do this work by putting aside our senses of guilt and pride. We all play a part, no matter who we are, but we all want what is best for our field, our students, our colleagues, and ourselves.

As my blog posts over the last seven months have demonstrated, the Social Justice and Activism at the Convention Task Force (or SJAC), chaired by Akua Duku Anokye, has been working very hard since October, along with the local arrangements committee, led by Jane Greer, to build some structural changes into this year’s annual convention. These changes and additions to our convention are meant to help us engage in the social justice laboring and languaging that the membership, particularly the identity caucuses, the executive committee, and the executive officers, saw as vital. My hope is that this year will demonstrate a number of additional structural changes to the convention that can be made permanent.

Here are the most important things on the program that the SJAC, the local arrangements committee, and I have designed for your convention experience:

- Preconvention workshops that focus on social justice and activist issues;
- An all-convention event that will be the focal point for internal reflections on the organization and our own social justice activism at our local sites;
- Various tables and booths in the Action Hub that focus on local activists, fundraising for local and national activist organizations (e.g., Literacy KC, The Center for American Indian Community Health, and Black Lives Matter), and gathering knowledge and info about activism and other social justice projects;
- Welcoming Companions project, which is meant to help folks feel safer as they travel from the airport to the convention site, and while they are at the convention;
- Enhanced technological access and live streaming of some sessions as a pilot that we are assessing for future possibilities.

While I encourage you to participate in as many of the above opportunities as possible, I will call your attention most especially to the all-convention event. You’ve already received the statements on social justice and activism by a number of CCCC members and international activist scholars (thank you to Tiane Donahue, Brice Nordquist, and Steve Parks for help in gathering those), that I hope you have a chance to read before this event, which will run more like a workshop. During and after the event, we’ll use those statements to help us reflect upon the organization and our own work in order to plan the social justice transformations we want to realize. Additionally, at the event, we’ll hear from local activists—namely, Gillian Helms from Literacy KC, Alvin Brooks from the Ad Hoc Group Against Crime, and Glenn North, the Poet Laureate at the 18th and Vine Historic Jazz District—about their work in the Kansas City area and be encouraged to continue our reflective work after the event by engaging in the activities and tables in the Action Hub that are designed for this follow-up work.

There are other activities and structural changes to this year’s convention that were in the works before the SJAC was formed. These are changes I felt would not only help make a more embodied experience at the convention but help us all engage with the theme of languaging and laboring toward (social justice) transformation. Several are pilot projects that, if successful this year, can be annual inclusions in conventions. Many of these new additions to the convention you may participate in directly. The main additions:

- An Action Hub where more interactive activities and tables will be located for you to stop by, engage, and transform (all of the previous years’ Action Hub tables will be here);
- A convention podcast and soundtrack, led by our New Media Producer, Matt Gomes, and his team, which many of you may already be listening to, as it has started before the convention and extends with episodes just after our convention—in fact, there will be an episode each day of our convention;
- Teaching demonstrations in the Exhibit Hall that focus on embodied and mindfulness-based pedagogies, which includes presentations from Jackie Hoermann-Elliot, Sarah Moseley, Christy Wenger, Molly Daniel, and Barry Kroll;
- An Escape Room (space) with another room for reflections on the experience that focus on laboring, languaging, access, and privilege, which have been developed by Shane Wood and his team from the Local Arrangements Committee;
- Early-morning yoga sessions, which will be facilitated by Sarah Mosely, an experienced yoga instructor;
- “Rhyme, Riddim, and Prose,” a series of spoken-word events in the Exhibit Hall meant to be participatory and organized by Neisha-Anne Green—all are encouraged to come, listen, and participate;
- Special mentoring events for the Scholars for the Dream Travel Award winners and past winners, which have been organized by Rhea Estelle Lathan—there is a separate schedule of these events;
- Kansas City Cultural Event, which includes a lecture on local jazz and social justice movements in the area by Chuck Haddix, accompanied by the Vine Street Rumble Jazz Orchestra—this is a catered dinner event.

Of special note in the list of additions this year is the convention podcast, which I hope will expand access to the convention by not only making it more accessible to those unable to join us this year, both domestically and in other countries. I’ve asked the Transnational Composition Standing Group to work with Matt in developing content in the podcasts to illustrate and open possible connections with scholars... from around the world (thank you to Shyam Sharma for help here). The podcast will also feature a soundtrack that Matt developed just for us. The Local Arrangements Committee also has developed an extensive hospitality website (https://4cskc.weebly.com/) that offers more information on most of the listed structural changes and opportunities at our convention.

Another cool gathering will be the Kansas City Cultural Event, which will have good food, wine, great discussion about local culture by Chuck Haddix, and, I’m sure, a great performance by the Vine Street Rumble Jazz Orchestra that augments the lecture. This exciting event is one I think will allow us to wind down, relax, learn, and have fun. In the same vein, I hope that the escape rooms, the spoken-word events, and the early-morning yoga will offer folks similar chances to have fun, unwind, and engage in embodied ways.

Beyond the above, this year I’ve tried to more explicitly connect the good folks working in the 4C4Equality and Cs the Day groups to help us gamify our convention experiences and bend that reflective work toward questions of equity. This means that at registration, you should get some materials to help you gamify your convention. I hope you’ll try it out. I hear there could be a sparkle unicorn in addition to sparkle ponies!

Our convention will also have many of the things you have come to rely on while communing together annually. We received many wonderful proposals this year. For more, check out my biweekly blog posts (http://asaobinoue.blogspot.com/) leading up to the convention. We have over 2,740 speaking roles offered on our program. I eliminated the cluster system for organizing sessions and proposal readers and tried a hashtag system, which, with some modifications, I think can be more useful to us in the coming years, should future chairs choose to use it. Mostly what I hope for is a convention experience where we mingle more, hence the broader-in-scope hashtags. I will suggest this change to Vershawn Young, our next Program Chair, with the addition of a keyword index, an idea that came out of discussions in the Stage Two readings (thank you, Stage Two readers). Regardless of the way you navigate the program, you’ll find many wonderful and engaging sessions, roundtables, workshops, and poster sessions.

Finally, let me again thank the members of CCCC, especially the identity caucuses, for their participation in important discussions as the convention took shape over last summer. Thank you to the members of the SJAC for their willingness to volunteer in this unique year of convention preparation. Thank you to the Local Arrangements Committee, who took on extra work and collaborated with the SJAC, with a special thanks to Jane Greer. Our convention was truly a collaborative effort to put together. I’m deeply humbled and grateful for all the hands and minds that went into it.

Now, I ask us to labor forth, to language as we may, and transform ourselves, others, and CCCC in compassionate ways that make for a more equitable and just tomorrow. Enjoy the convention!

Peace to you all,
Asao B. Inoue
Welcome from the Local Arrangements Committee

Welcome to Kansas City! Your Local Arrangements Committee has worked hard to prepare for your visit, and we’re thrilled to share our town with you. Renowned for barbecue, jazz, and so much more, our river city sits on the banks of the Muddy MO, whose brown swirling waters are “too thick to drink, too thin to plow,” as residents commonly say. Beyond the river’s edge, you’ll find a lively community with a vibrant arts scene and terrific spots to eat and drink with friends, old and new. You can travel from Union Station to River Market on the free streetcar line or walk/bike/run as you explore the bustling downtown area that surrounds Bartle Hall (the convention center) and the Marriott Hotel, headquarters for CCCC 2018.

Just a few highlights:

Our Museums & the Stories They Tell. Located in the 18th and Vine Historic District, the American Jazz Museum and Negro Leagues Baseball Museum showcase vital components of KC’s cultural heritage. Visitors to the Nelson-Atkins Art Museum should check out “Through the Eyes of Picasso,” which brings many of Picasso’s masterpieces together with the African and Oceanic art that inspired them. KC is proud to be the exhibit’s only US stop on its international tour. If you’re feeling playful, the National Museum of Toys and Miniatures (T/m) highlights the history and cultural significance of toys, alongside its renowned art collection of fine-scale miniatures. The National World War I Museum and Memorial offers powerful insights on the causes and consequences of “The Great War,” and you can catch an elevator to the top of the memorial for the best view of the city.
The Music & Entertainment Scene. During the CCCC Convention, the Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts, just south of Bartle Hall, will host a range of musical artists—opera, country, and Irish dance. Check the Kauffman Center’s website for details and tickets. For jazz aficionados, the Blue Room at 18th and Vine is a wonderfully intimate venue. And BB’s Lawnside BBQ offers an old-school roadhouse experience for folks who love the blues. Grab a free copy of The Pitch for a comprehensive listing of entertainment options around town.

Hungry? Thirsty? If you like to get to know a city through its cuisine, KC can certainly satisfy your appetites. Legendary BBQ joints range from the original Arthur Bryant’s on 18th Street (order your meat at the counter, sit at communal tables, and sop up sauce with white sandwich bread) to the upscale—Jack Stack or Q39 (reservations recommended). The city is also the home of many award-winning restaurants, including Port Fonda, a Mexican cantina in Westport; Rye on the Plaza, where the creative comfort food includes fried chicken and lemon meringue pie; and Bluestem, which offers the finest in locally sourced cuisine and Midwestern hospitality. (Just a note: Westport will be more than bustling with St. Patrick’s Day revelries. If Westport destinations are on your must-do list in KC, you may want to get there before Saturday, March 17.)

For adult beverages, check out Manifesto, a speakeasy in the basement of the Rieger on Main Street, where talented bartenders serve up craft cocktails. Or sample our hometown Boulevard beers at the brewery’s beer hall on Southwest Blvd. Five-dollar tickets for brewery tours are distributed on a first-come, first-served basis. Several microbreweries and distilleries are equally eager to share their unique libations with you, including Brewery Empirical and Tom’s Town Distillery—both accessible from the streetcar line.
And please know that you don’t have to drop serious cash to eat and drink well in KC. Diners and coffee shops abound, and many upscale spots offer happy hour deals. Stop by the local booth in the registration area, and we’ll share our favorites with you.

Wanting to Exercise after All That Eating and Drinking? Included in Outdoor Magazine’s top 25 liveable cities, KC offers numerous opportunities to get moving. Hop on a B-cycle docked at Barney Allis Plaza or other nearby stations and head for the Riverfront Heritage Trail, a 15-mile, urban route winding through some of KC’s historic neighborhoods. On the KC Public Library website, you’ll find an architectural walking tour of the Library District, just north of Bartle Hall. (The library’s parking garage, which looks like a three-story bookshelf, is a great photo spot.) And Glenn Lester has planned Saturday’s James Berlin Fun Run so folks can lace up their running shoes and experience KC’s hills.

More Than Museums, Music, Restaurants, and Fun. The Local Planning Committee certainly wants to share with you the best that KC offers to its visitors, but we also hope you’ll ask us about our city’s complex, often divisive history and the social justice work that has shaped our past and continues to shape our future. The land on which KC sits was originally the home of Hopewell and then Kansa and Osage communities of Native Americans prior to the incursion of European American settlers. During the Civil War, such bloody raiding occurred across the Missouri-Kansas border that Union military leaders ordered the burning of nearly 3,000 homes and over 2,200 square miles of farmland owned by Confederate sympathizers, causing this area to be dubbed the “Burnt District.” During the Jim Crow Era, red-lining emerged as a key tactic of real estate developers who maximized their profits by encouraging white residents to move to suburbs where property deeds featured racial covenants to exclude Blacks. Today, Kansas City, like the rest of Missouri, struggles to address the violence perpetrated against people of color and members of other minority communities.

But these are not the only stories to be told of our town. Those of us with roots here marvel at the creativity of Nikoles Aleshi, a grocer who expanded educational opportunities for immigrants by creating and distributing pedagogical materials that simplified the spelling of the English language in the early 20th century. We take inspiration from Lucile Bluford, who edited Kansas City’s Black newspaper, The Call, for five decades and was a powerful voice in the Civil Rights Movement. We take pride in gay rights activist Drew Shaffer, who founded the Phoenix Society for Individual Freedom and helped organize the national meeting that led to the creation of NACHO—the North American Conference of Homophile Organizations—in 1966.

Today in KC, activists continue the work begun by Aleshi, Bluford, Shaffer, and countless others, and we’re proud you’ll hear from some of them at the all-convention event on Thursday. We also hope that during the convention you’ll engage with the many local writing teachers who labor every day—in K–12 classrooms, at community colleges, at regional and research universities, in community literacy organizations and nonprofits—to make KC a better homeplace for everyone who lives here.

We welcome you to our city, we thank you for coming, and we look forward to sharing our work and our lives with you.

Most sincerely,

Jane Greer

First Time at the Convention?

With pleasure, the CCCC Newcomers’ Orientation Committee welcomes all of you to the 2018 CCCC, but especially new members and first-time attendees. We have planned several events that we hope will help you get the most out of this convention. (These events and their locations are listed in the Special Events schedules in the program.)

On Wednesday, our committee will host an Orientation Session (5:15–6:15 p.m.) where we will discuss how to navigate the convention, how to use the program effectively, how to participate in the convention’s many events, and how to meet others. We also look forward to meeting you at the Newcomers’ Coffee Hour on Thursday (7:30–8:15 a.m.), a congenial start to the first full day of activities, where you can begin the kinds of professional conversations that have made this convention one of the high points of the year for each of us.

We also hope that you will attend the Think Tank (session A.01, Thursday, 10:30–11:45 a.m.) for proposing presentations and panels for the 2019 CCCC. At this session, you will have the opportunity to brainstorm initial ideas regarding papers and sessions, meet with other newcomers interested in similar topics, and also meet with established scholars in our field with expertise in the various program clusters in rhetoric, composition, and communication studies. These scholars will serve as facilitators, helping you conceptualize and frame your proposals.

This year, we are also hosting “Career Quest: Navigating a Future in Composition, Rhetoric, and Writing Studies” (session B.06, Thursday, 12:15–1:30 p.m.). This interactive session is designed for newcomers and early-career attendees; its goal is to help participants develop a plan in which opportunities at the convention and within the organization can play an important part in their career development.

Throughout the convention, the Newcomers’ Orientation Committee members will wear specially marked badges. Please say hello; we are happy to listen to your concerns or answer any questions you have. And feel free to stop by the Newcomers’ Station, where members of our committee and other CCCC members will be available to chat about the convention, talk about shared interests, learn about your work, and discuss how CCCC can support you.

With warm good wishes,

CCCC Newcomers’ Orientation Committee

General convention questions can be directed to NCTE staff at the Registration Desk during open hours.

Local Committee Office
The Local Committee Office is located in the Basie Coat Check on the second level.

Session and Event Locations
Unless otherwise noted, all sessions and events at the 2018 CCCC Annual Convention are located at the Kansas City Convention Center and the Kansas City Marriott Downtown.

Information for Attendees with Disabilities
CCCC is committed to making arrangements that allow all of its members to participate in the convention. Wheelchair space is available in meeting rooms, and we have provided all speakers and session chairs with guidelines that will make sessions more accessible to all convention participants. These arrangements result from conversations between NCTE staff, the CCCC Program Chair, the CCCC Committee on Disability Issues in Composition and Communication, disability studies specialists at the University of Illinois, and other professional associations. Please download the Accessibility Guide from the CCCC 2018 website or mobile app. Information is also available at the Accessibilities Table, located in the Basie Ballroom Foyer at the Kansas City Marriott Downtown.

In addition to exhibitors, there will be additional programming in the Exhibit Hall. Please refer to page 21 for a schedule of these events.

For the latest titles from NCTE, including new books in the CCCC Studies in Writing and Rhetoric series, visit the NCTE booth in the Exhibit Hall.
Planning for Next Year's CCCC Convention

Individuals interested in discussing program proposals for the 2019 CCCC Annual Convention in Pittsburgh, PA, March 13–16, are invited to meet Vershawn Young, 2019 Program Chair, in the registration area on Friday, March 16, from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m.

Wi-Fi

The Marriott Downtown offers free public Wi-Fi in all common areas and eateries. Wi-Fi in session rooms at both the Marriott and Kansas City Convention Center will also be available to all attendees. The network ID and password are CCCC2018.

CCCC Mobile App

For the most up-to-date information on session locations and times, download the mobile app. The app provides a quick way to search convention sessions, view maps of the Kansas City Marriott Downtown and Kansas City Convention Center, explore the Exhibit Hall, and more. Search for “NCTE” at the Google Play Store or Apple Store.

AA and Al-Anon Meetings

CCCC offers meeting space for AA and Al-Anon meetings on Thursday and Friday evenings from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

- AA, Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Eisenhower Room
- Al-Anon, Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Roosevelt Room

Nonsexist Language

All CCCC 2018 program participants were sent and asked to use the official CCCC position statement and guidelines for nonsexist language at their sessions.

Mutual Respect & Anti-Harassment Policy

NCTE is committed to producing events where everyone may learn, network, and socialize in an environment of mutual respect. Therefore, some behaviors are expressly prohibited: harassment or intimidation related to gender, gender identity and/or expression, sexual orientation, disability, race, age, religion; deliberate intimidation, stalking, or following; harassing photography or recording; sustained disruption of talks or events; inappropriate contact and unwelcome sexual attention. Participants are expected to observe this code of conduct policy in all venues and events. Contact Lynn Neal, Senior Director of Operations at lneal@ncte.org if you believe you have been harassed or that a harassing situation exists. All reports will be directed to NCTE leadership immediately. Legal counsel, venue security, and/or local law enforcement may become involved if deemed necessary.
Other Events at CCCC

Early-Morning Yoga Sessions
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Royal Exhibit Hall
Get your mind-body connection flowing with early morning yoga! Sessions take place at 6:45 on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday mornings. The sessions will last approximately 45 minutes, and all levels, all bodies are welcome, including first-timers. Experienced yoga instructor Sarah Moseley, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, will be leading the sessions. Didn’t pack your yoga mat? No problem! Mats will be available onsite.

CCCC 2018 Escape Room
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Wilson and Hoover Rooms
Enhance your problem-solving capabilities and connect with others in the CCCC 2018 escape room! Coordinated by Shane Wood, University of Kansas, Lawrence, the escape room challenge will last around 30 minutes and then allow you another 30 minutes for follow-up discussion with your team. Test your skills on Thursday, 10:30 a.m.–6:00 p.m., and Friday, 8:00 a.m.–4:30 p.m.

Digital Praxis Posters
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Basie Ballroom Foyer
Digital Praxis Posters is an interactive exhibit format. Information about current posters and this year’s schedule of presentations will be available on the CCCC 2018 website. Digital posters will be presented during sessions A, B, E, and F.

Action Hub
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Basie Ballroom Foyer
Visit the following organizations, events, and activities in the Action Hub throughout the convention.

  2017 CCCC Summer Conference Organizers
  Interested in hosting a future CCCC Summer Conference? Come talk with the 2017 Summer Conference organizers, who will share their experiences!

  4C4Equality
  The 4C4E initiative seeks to connect attendees to local issues, spur action, and connect scholar-activists with one another via interactive materials available at our table. 4C4E supports engagement in communities, classrooms, and local communities.

  Accessibility Table
  CCCC is committed to making arrangements that allow all of its members to participate in the convention. Visit the Accessibility Table to learn more and to discuss your individual needs.
Archivists in Action
Archivists from Kansas City–area repositories and museums will be on hand to discuss their collections—both those that are available locally and those that are available digitally—that might be of interest to researchers in rhetoric and composition and for teaching purposes. Ranging from women’s history to the history of the Midwest, from LGBTQ history to the history of recorded sound in the 19th and 20th centuries, Kansas City is rich in archival holdings, and area archivists are eager to engage with the CCCC membership. Stop by the table for a detailed schedule.

CCCC/NCTE Editors
Got an idea for a journal article or book manuscript? CCCC and NCTE editors will be holding office hours in the Action Hub. Stop by to pitch an idea and to hear about their plans for upcoming publications.

Cs the Day
Cs the Day is a game that promotes a lively, fun, eccentric approach to CCCC. By completing quests to earn the fabled Sparklepony, rhet/comp trading cards, and other prizes, we hope you will gain a new appreciation for how games and play can lead to real exploration, learning, and connection. Play the game; win the convention!

Digital Archive of Literacy Narratives (DALN)
The DALN—the largest publicly accessible online archive of firsthand literacy accounts in the world—will be onsite to collect stories about participants’ literacy backgrounds. In light of recent events surrounding the NAACP travel advisory based on Missouri’s employment discrimination legislation, we are particularly interested in collecting narratives about workplace and activist literacies. Please consider contributing to this valuable teaching, research, and archival resource.

Donations to Local Movements
At the SJAC task force donation table, volunteers will collect donations for and share information about local organizations, such as Literacy KC, One Struggle KC, the Center for American Indian Community Health, the AdHoc Group Against Crime, the Black Archives of Mid-America, and the national Black Lives Matter organization.

NCTE College Section
The NCTE College Section table will have information about NCTE, the umbrella organization of which CCCC is a part, and specific information about the College Section.

Newcomers’ Station
Is this your first time at the CCCC Convention? Stop by the Newcomers’ Station, where members of the Newcomers’ Orientation Committee and other CCCC members will be available to chat about the convention, talk about shared interests, learn about your work, and discuss how CCCC can support you.
Rhetoric and Composition Journal Editors
The Rhetoric and Composition Journal Editors at CCCC is a joint project designed as a service to the rhetoric and composition community. We invite you to stop by and talk to editors and their representatives about our publications and publishing opportunities in the field. All nonprofit journals in the field are invited to join us by providing information and volunteering to help staff the booth. For more information or to volunteer, contact Janice Walker at jwalker@georgiasouthern.edu.

Welcoming Companions
The Welcoming Companions program is available to match attendees wanting company for travel around the convention and hotel sites with other attendee volunteers.

Write-In Table
The purpose of the Write-In Table is to harness the impact of letter-writing campaign activism by providing resources and information to attendees who want to make their voices heard while attending the convention. Attendees will be encouraged to stop by the table and review materials on state-specific issues that led to the issuing of the NAACP Travel Advisory in Summer 2017.

The Writing Studies Tree
The WST, writingsstudiestree.org, is a crowdsourced database of academic genealogies in writing studies: links of mentoring, collaboration, education, and employment among people and places in the field. We hope you’ll come explore your connections and contribute to the WST’s ongoing efforts to map the field as a living network.

Exhibit Hall Events
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Basie Ballroom
Join other attendees for a series of mindfulness workshops and spoken-word performances in the CCCC 2018 Exhibit Hall! The schedule for mindfulness workshops is listed below. Task Force on Social Justice and Activism at the Convention

The Task Force on Social Justice and Activism at the Convention (SJAC) was formed by the 2018 Program Chair, Asao B. Inoue, from a recommendation offered by the Executive Committee after discussions in the EC during the summer months of 2017. This task force was designed to help the chair augment the convention and pilot structural changes to the convention to better address issues of equity and safety at our convention site. The task force had the following charges:

- Provide the Program Chair with a prioritized list of ways to make this year’s annual convention safer and more accessible for members and provide events and experiences for members to do appropriate social justice and activist work at the convention site.
- Help coordinate, design, and put into action the ideas, events, and experiences that the program chair approves from the prioritized list.
- Work with the local planning committee on safety, accessibility, social justice, and activist ideas, events, and experiences.

2018 Program Chair Asao B. Inoue wishes to thank the members of this hard-working committee and their chair for the good, needed work they performed in the service of CCCC and its members.

• Saturday: 9:30 a.m.–1:45 p.m.

Check the online program and mobile app for the full schedule.

This year the SFD committee has a space available for the duration of the convention. The purpose of the SFD Lounge is to provide a lounge atmosphere for socialization into an intellectual community drawn from our own cultural/linguistic perspectives as we conceptualize, plan, and build an SFD network. This will happen in an empowering space for SFD scholars and alumni to relax and meet while also building lasting relationships that we hope will serve everyone well beyond CCCC 2018. We have designed a space to facilitate a mix of insight-driven discussions—collaborative learning opportunities where participants can experience focus-driven downtime that provides a brain break without extinguishing their intellectual inspiration.

This will consist of multiple interactive Listening Tables, Dreamweavers, short Q & A sessions—both structured and unstructured—collation-building activities, as well as opportunities to join the SFD Network, which is a low-stakes mentoring network. We will have snacks and an hourly raffle, including signed books (SWR & Working and Writing for Change series), one-on-one time with a scholar, and tickets to Cs’ events.

During the day we will have three to four Listening Tables running concurrently, facilitated by various past and present CCCC chairs, elders, caucus leaders, authors, and book and journal editors who will guide discussions on topics they choose. They will share their experience, knowledge, and wisdom. In the late evenings we will host the Collation-Building Lounge, which will feature specific narratives from Dreamweavers—senior SFD alumni and activists. Invited Table Talk and Lounge scholars include but are not limited to Steven Alvarez, Qwo-Li Driskill, David Holmes, Asao B. Inoue, Steve Parks, Malea Powell, Elaine Richardson, Vershawn Young, and many more. Each will engage with attendees in informal discussions. Topics include:

• What would you tell your SFD self?
• How do you negotiate race, identity, and power (grad student → tenure → full)?
• What has CCCC done for me lately? What’s getting involved got to do with it?
• What has my caucus done for me lately? What’s getting involved got to do with it?
• How do I succeed in composition studies without losing my culture/identity soul?
• What are your cultural survival habits and strategies?
• What are the politics of institutional cultural fit?
Throughout the convention we will ask everyone to identify existing resources and missed opportunities and consider possibilities for building and sustaining coalitions and networks within the field. Ultimately, this space will be a means to reimagine the 4C experience in order to better serve an underrepresented collective. Our hope is that you leave CCCC 2018 with relationships and resources that help you sustain long-term participation in the field.

Come experience a safe, low-stakes environment where we’re building a coalition and collaborations toward future projects, while offering survival strategies for historically underrepresented voices.

Virtual Research Network Forum Coordinator: Keith Dorwick, University of Louisiana, Lafayette

The Research Network Forum, founded in 1987, is a preconvention forum that provides an opportunity for established researchers, new researchers, and graduate students to discuss their current projects and receive mentoring from colleagues in the discipline. The forum is free to CCCC Convention registrants. As in past years, RNF 2018 features morning plenary addresses focusing on the 2018 CCCC Convention theme. During roundtable discussions, Work-in-Progress Presenters (WiPPs) at any stage of research and at any position in the composition/rhetoric field (graduate student, junior faculty, tenured faculty, administrator, and/or independent scholar) are grouped by thematic clusters where they discuss their current projects. Discussion Leaders (DLs) lead the thematic roundtables and mentor WiPPs; this role is key to the RNF. Participants also include editors of printed and online composition/rhetoric publications (journals, edited collections, and book series), who discuss publishing opportunities for completed works-in-progress in an open roundtable format.

Consortium of Doctoral Programs in Rhetoric and Composition

Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Trianon E

1:30–5:00 p.m.

The Consortium of Doctoral Programs in Rhetoric and Composition (CDPRC), which represents more than seventy universities, meets every year in conjunction with CCCC. The CDPRC links doctoral education with the discipline, with members from the MA and undergraduate SIGs, and with local and national issues. In 2018, the CDPRC will offer a two-part forum that begins with a featured discussion topic and concludes with a business meeting, both of which are open events. This year’s discussion will feature Dr. Carrie Leverenz’s survey of doctoral programs. In order to better understand the needs of doctoral programs, her survey research aims to identify areas of continued need and development across graduate education in our field. The business meeting agenda includes reports from Consortium officers, election of new officers, planning for the 2019 meeting, and developing initiatives for maintaining connections with stakeholder groups. Graduate students are encouraged to attend both parts of the forum.

Qualitative Research Network

Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Royal Exhibit Hall

1:30–5:00 p.m.

Chair: William Banks, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC
Associate Chair: Brandon Hardy, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC

The Qualitative Research Network, which meets annually at the CCCC Convention, is offered for new and experienced qualitative researchers. The QRN provides mentoring and support to qualitative researchers at all levels of experience and working in diverse areas of study within the college composition and communication community. As a preconference research network, the QRN is open to everyone, including those who are already presenting at the convention in other venues.
Intellectual Property in Composition Studies
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Trianon D
2:00–5:30 p.m.

The Caucus on Intellectual Property in Composition Studies (CCCC-IP) invites to its annual meeting composition scholars and teachers who are concerned with issues of authorship, copyright, fair use, remix, access, and the ownership and use of intellectual property (IP). Since it began in 1994, the Caucus has sponsored explorations of IP issues pertinent to teachers, scholars, and students in the field.

At this practical and action-focused annual meeting, the Caucus will discuss the current status of teaching and research of authorship, copyright, and intellectual property in the field of rhetoric and composition. Participants will meet in roundtables to discuss topics such as remix and participatory culture, plagiarism and authorship, students’ rights to their intellectual property, and best practices in teaching students and instructors about IP. Roundtable leaders will share pertinent information on their topics, and participants will create action plans and share resources for political, professional, scholarly, and pedagogical use. This year, attendees will participate in roundtables designed to respond to four areas of timely concern: (1) emergent legislative and legal developments; (2) students’ rights to their own intellectual property; (3) teaching about intellectual property in writing courses and programs; and (4) research networking in intellectual property studies. Following the roundtable discussions, participants will reconvene to share their plans and recommend future action for the coming year.

The Caucus welcomes newcomers and provides mentoring opportunities for graduate students and junior scholars.

Newcomers’ Orientation
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Colonial Ballroom
5:15–6:15 p.m.

Join members of the Newcomers’ Orientation Committee for an orientation session. The committee will discuss how to navigate the convention and share tips to get the most out of the convention activities.

#TYCATransforming
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Yardbird B
5:15–6:15 p.m.

#TYCATransforming is a place to find your tribe and connect with colleagues who teach at two-year colleges. At #TYCATransforming (formerly TYCA Talks and #TYCACreatingChange), we will share news of emerging local, regional, and national issues, celebrate our students, and use our collective voice to advocate for our open-door institutions.
Special Event—Rhetoricians for Peace: 15-Year Anniversary Celebration
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Lido
6:00–8:00 p.m.
Co-Chairs: Teresa Grettano, University of Scranton, PA
William Thelin, University of Akron, OH

Rhetoricians for Peace (RFP) formed in 2003 in response to the US invasion of Iraq. RFP’s first meeting was at the Conference on College Composition and Communication Annual Convention in New York, where we participated in a protest march down the blocks of the city. Since then, RFP has maintained visibility at the convention every year through workshops and special events, focusing on diverse issues such as propaganda, combating forms of social violence, and economic literacy, all connected to our central mission of establishing a more peaceful, just world. Now, on what will be our 15-year anniversary, RFP will use its meeting to reflect on all that we have done and to collaborate on what we will do in the future.

Speakers will focus on specific projects RFP has coordinated, such as the teaching of Orwell’s 1984 across the nation to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the title, and will review scholarship that has sprung from the work of this organization, such as the recently released volume, Propaganda and Rhetoric in Democracy. Speakers will then lead a discussion of the challenges that face us in this post-truth world and brainstorm with participants about projects and areas of scholarship that will further the goal of social justice.

TYCA 2018 Public Image of Two-Year Colleges: TYCA Fame Award
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Yardbird A
6:30–7:30 p.m.

The TYCA Fame Award serves to publicly acknowledge the best positive mention of the two-year college appearing in any media during the previous year. The award gives credit to those reporters, writers, filmmakers, and others who seek out and publicize exemplary students, faculty, programs, campuses, and/or recognize the two-year college system.

CCCC has established the Scholars for the Dream Travel Awards to increase the participation of traditionally underrepresented groups. This includes Black, Latinx, Asian, American Indian/Alaska Native, Native Hawaiian, or other Pacific Islander scholars—persons whose presence and whose contributions are central to the full realization of our professional goals. The awards celebrate the scholarly contributions of first-time presenters at CCCC who are members of these groups. By providing some funding for these scholars to travel to the convention and to share their work with us, we hope to make the term “underrepresented” past history.

Kathleen Blake Yancey, 2018 Exemplar of the Conference on College Composition and Communication

Over the course of her career, Kathi Yancey has written and spoken brilliantly about the major issues affecting literacy educators at every level. Those of us who have read her work and listened to her find it difficult to imagine what our profession would look like without the benefit of her personal, scholarly, and professional accomplishments.

—Erika Lindemann

CCCC is honored to recognize Kathleen Blake Yancey with the 2018 CCCC Exemplar Award. Distinguished Research Professor and Kellogg W. Hunt Professor of English at Florida State University, she embodies the award as she “represents the highest ideals of scholarship, teaching, and service to the entire profession.” Her distinguished career as a scholar, teacher, mentor, and leader is characterized by a deep commitment to all aspects of the fields of rhetoric, composition, and literacy studies—her contributions marked by a creative intellect and driven by a generous spirit and infectious energy.

From her first scholarly presentation, delivered at CCCC in Denver in 1978, we can divine the ties that both bind Kathi Yancey’s work and anticipate some of the most critical themes of writing studies in the past four decades: a focus on the multimodality of composing and a concern with the impact of our assessment and pedagogical practices on student writing, learning, and transfer. “She had the vision to anticipate,” writes Erika Lindeman, “how the revolution in technology would impact research and teaching at all levels of public education and has provided thoughtful, carefully researched responses to these developments, which have affected a generation of teachers and students.” In all, her scholarly contributions number over a dozen edited collections and books and over 100 chapters and articles. Beyond the sheer quantity of her work, Kathi Yancey’s contribution is notable—perhaps more notable—for its quality. She is recipient of numerous awards for her scholarship, having received the CCCC Research Impact Award, been twice recognized with the CWPA Best Book Award and twice with the CWPA Special Award for Outstanding Scholarship. She also authored chapters in multiple volumes recognized by CCCC, CWPA, Computers and Writing, and IWCA. Her essays have been recognized with the South Atlantic Review Prize, the Composition Forum article of the year, and the Donald Murray Prize.
Throughout her career, Kathi Yancey has demonstrated a skill at taking the gist of the field and explaining it, spreading it, making it scalable, and articulating it to wide and public audiences. Moreover, as Irwin Weiser writes, “she has always—always—kept students as her focus. Her theorizing and research in assessment, in reflection, in WAC, and most recently in transfer of learning has at its core how we can become better, more reflective teachers and thus help our students become better, more reflective writers, learners, and citizens.” She has also unwaveringly kept composition teachers and pedagogy in focus, encouraging teachers and administrators to read her work as part of their own open-ended, continuous reflection on theories and practices. Whether we turn to Assembling Composition, A Rhetoric of Reflection, Writing across Contexts, Electronic Portfolios 2.0, Delivering College Composition, or Assessing Writing across the Curriculum, we see an active, thoughtful, accomplished scholar, editor, and collaborator writing from deep care with commitment, capaciousness, and intellectual vision.

Among Kathi Yancey’s most notable and memorable scholarly contributions to the discipline is her 2004 CCCC Chair’s Address and CCC article, “Made Not Only in Words: Composition in a New Key.” This highly influential piece exemplifies her unique ability to synthesize current scholarly conversations from across fields, create an informed and motivating curricular vision, and articulate it in a way that is accessible and engaging to people who work at all levels of postsecondary writing education. She argues through the lenses of new literacy, visual rhetorics, and the “transformation of writing and reading” that, “we have a moment”—a moment unlike all others that calls upon us to act, as a discipline, organization, and individuals to effect meaningful change in our classrooms, institutions, and nation. “In helping create writing publics,” she writes, “we also foster the development of citizens who vote, of citizens whose civic literacy is global in its sensibility and its communicative potential, and whose commitment to humanity is characterized by consistency and generosity as well as the ability to write for purposes that are unconstrained and audiences that are nearly unlimited” (321)—values that continue to inform our teaching and our discipline and are increasingly critical to our nation.

Her impact as a mentor and teacher is as broad as her scholarly contributions, extending beyond the campuses of her home institutions to across the globe. An outstanding teacher recognized numerous times for her teaching and mentoring, she has consulted with or presented workshops at over one hundred sixty local school districts and colleges, talking with, listening to, and collaborating with teachers and administrators to envision and realize sound and sustainable approaches to literacy education. In all of these contexts she collaborates and teaches, partnering, uplifting, and enabling others to achieve their professional and pedagogical goals.

Kathi Yancey is described by her former students and junior colleagues as generous, humble, kind, accessible, and thoughtful, recognizing each of them as unique, and harnessing their talents, knowledges, and experiences as they envision and create their distinct pathways into the discipline and realize their potential as teachers, scholars, and leaders. She has mentored scores of graduate and undergraduate students, directing dozens of theses and dissertations, guiding others in their administrative work. She demonstrates repeatedly through her collaborative scholarship with graduate students and junior colleagues her considerable commitment to the discipline and the next generation of scholars.

The same qualities that inform her teaching and mentorship characterize Kathi Yancey’s service and leadership. She is generous with her time and expertise, serving on institutional and national advisory boards, giving talks and keynote addresses, writing manuscript and promotion reviews as well as nominations for awards, offering workshops, judging essay contests, serving on editorial boards, conducting program reviews, and coaching colleagues submitting conference proposals. Co-founder and co-director of the Inter/National Coalition for Electronic Portfolio Research and the UNC Charlotte National Writing Project, she also co-founded and coedited Assessing Writing and served as editor of College Composition and Communication from 2010 through 2014. During her tenure, CCC became even more relevant to its readership and the profession, continuing to lead and shape the field through its articles, thematic issues, and new features. She was also instrumental in founding the National Day on Writing, a congressionally recognized event that stands as one of the most visible manifestations of our profession to the world.

But perhaps in no other area of her contributions has Kathi Yancey had greater impact than in her service to the discipline through its leading professional organizations. She has served as president of the Council of Writing Program Administrators and on three WPA tasks forces charged with creating and revising the WPA Outcomes Statement for First-Year Composition. In addition to leading NCTE as President, she chaired its College Section and College Forum and contributed to the Task Force on Assessment and Task Force on the SAT and ACT. She played a leadership role in the drafting of the “NCTE Definition of 21st-Century Literacies” and “NCTE Framework for 21st-Century Curriculum and Assessment,” both of which were adopted during her term as president. Kathi Yancey was Chair of CCCC in 2004 and named to the CCCC Task Force on the Future of CCC Online and the Task Force on Digital Composition. She has also served on the CCCC Committee on Assessment and chaired five NCTE regional conferences. In all of these roles she has served generously, tirelessly, and selflessly, creating energy and excitement among those working alongside her. She is unparalleled in her leadership and a model to us all, as Chris Anson writes, as she brings her “attention, wisdom, care, expertise, and time to everything she does.”

Kathi Yancey has, without question, made considerable contributions to our discipline and organizations as a scholar, mentor, and leader, and she shows no signs of letting up. In the past four years alone, she has edited, coedited, or coauthored three scholarly books and twenty-two articles or book chapters and delivered nearly thirty presentations, and she continues to serve in critical capacities in our organizations, keeping our attention always focused on the values of equity, equality, diversity, and accountability. More important, she continues to mentor and lead young scholars and teachers, working to ensure that students leave our classrooms prepared to participate as engaged writers.

Kathi was, and is, everywhere. Her influence spreads far and wide, yet she remains humble, grounded in the daily work of advocating for humane literacy practices and sensible educational reform. I can think of very few among us who have contributed so much to our profession with such good will and persistence.

—Chris Anson
The 2017 CCCC Convention theme, “Cultivating Capacity, Creating Change,” invited attendees to use the convention space to generate and regenerate. And “cultivate” we did when nearly 3,900 of us gathered in Portland, Oregon, last spring to engage with more than 600 sessions, workshops, posters, SIGs, and other activities reflecting the breadth and depth of the field. Particular features of last year’s convention were the Cultivate and Think Tank sessions, sessions that asked participants to engage as a “conference,” the first C, and collaboratively build our capacity to address issues in the organization, in the discipline, and in the profession. These special sessions offered kairotic spaces for members to think through the problems and possibilities of mentoring, working conditions, equity and inclusion, advocacy and public engagement, preparing future faculty, and more.

Carolyn Calhoon-Dillahunt’s chair’s address will build on the 2017 convention theme, focusing on the latter part of the theme, “creating change.” In examining how to turn kairotic moments into strategic action, this talk will reflect on our organizational and disciplinary history and discuss the opportunities inherent in the most persistent and perpetual problems we face. CCCC and, later, composition as an academic discipline, were created by scholars and educators in response to the “problems” with first-year composition (FYC), and Calhoon-Dillahunt will argue that FYC, even as internal and external forces are eroding its universal place in higher education, is a space of possibility and the space where we have the greatest power to effect change. Though our discipline has expanded well beyond FYC, and though composing is widely practiced outside of institutional spaces, FYC—in all its forms and with all its ancillary elements—remains at the center of the organization and its mission because students are at the center of FYC. In other words, to draw on Program Chair Asao Inoue’s 2018 convention theme, the composition classroom is the primary place where we language, labor, and transform with learners. Thus, it is the primary space where we put our theory into practice, theorize our practice, and, ultimately, shape policies. Within the context of FYC, Calhoon-Dillahunt will identify opportunities to enact meaningful and lasting change in CCCC and as CCCC members through intentional and strategic action.

Carolyn Calhoon-Dillahunt teaches English, primarily developmental and first-year writing, at Yakima Valley College in Washington. On campus, she is involved in placement, advising, ALP, and assessment work and regularly volunteers as a writing center consultant.

She has been actively engaged with NCTE, CCCC, and TYCA throughout her nearly two-decade postsecondary career, in both support and leadership roles. In addition to serving on or chairing a wide range of committees and task forces, she has been elected to three leadership positions—TYCA Secretary, TYCA Chair, and, currently, CCCC Chair—positions that have allowed her the unique privilege of serving multiple ex officio terms on the NCTE, CCCC, and TYCA Executive Committees.

Calhoon-Dillahunt has particularly embraced the organization’s policy and advocacy orientation. She was selected to serve as an NCTE Higher Education Policy Analyst and CCCC Policy Fellow. She is currently a member of the NCTE EC Policy and Advocacy Subcommittee and will participate in her fifth NCTE Advocacy Day in Washington, DC, in April.

Calhoon-Dillahunt has authored or coauthored pieces in TETYC, CCC, and WPA, and she and her colleague Dodie Forrest were recognized with the 2014 Mark Reynolds TETYC Best Article Award for their article, “Conversing in Marginal Spaces: Developmental Writers’ Response to Teacher Comments.” Calhoon-Dillahunt is also a regular presenter at conferences and was the 2013 NCTE College Celebration Featured Speaker (“Student Success: Stories from the Periphery”). Additionally, she was honored with the 2016 Nell Ann Pickett Service Award.

Literacy, Language, and Labor for Social Justice: Outward and Inward Reflection

At this all-convention session, attendees will have the opportunity to learn from local Kansas City work on literacy-focused social justice work, have a dialogue with colleagues, as well as identify organizational inclusion and equity priorities. Prior to the convention, participants will receive a collection of brief statements that were invited from various CCCC constituencies, offering reflections on literacy, language, and labor for social justice, responding specifically to the question, “What one thing about your activism or social justice work do you think might help us as we think about our own individual work at our respective colleges and communities, and/or as an organization who seeks to support its members in such efforts, especially around literacy and higher education learning?” Attendees are encouraged to read the statements prior to the convention.

Schedule
1:45–1:50 Introduction/Overview from Convention Chair
1:50–2:20 Panel of Speakers
  • Gillian Helm, Executive Director of Literacy KC
  • Alvin Brooks, AdHoc Group Against Crime
  • Glenn North, Poet Laureate at the 18th and Vine Historic Jazz District
2:20–2:45 Discussion and Reflection: Following the panel, attendees will have an opportunity to discuss at their tables, with focus on the panel insights and the packet of statements circulated before the convention.
2:45–3:00 Roaming mic, tables volunteer to share their discussion, reflection, conversation, identify follow-up tasks, goals, or needs.

Follow-Up
To help frame the all-convention activity and make it more meaningful to conventiongoers, everyone will be encouraged to do some or all of the following after the event:
  • Do more activist and reflective work in the Action Hub at stations or tables. These could be small tasks that folks can do in 15–20 minutes, maybe talk, maybe write, maybe learn about something particular, then write and talk.
Engage in other activist-based work already happening in the Action Hub, like the Write-In table, Donations to Local Movements table, and Welcoming Companions table.

Go through the escape rooms that will include a significant reflection time where participants make sense of their experience in terms of the convention themes, access, privilege, etc.

Engage in the Cs the Day gaming activities, since everyone will get those materials at registration.

Contribute or talk back in some way to someone while at the convention, either informally or formally. There may be opportunities to contribute something to the CCCC 2018 podcast that will be running during the convention.

Session Keynote Speakers

Gillian Helm, executive director of Literacy KC, has led the organization’s tremendous growth over the last five years, tripling the budget and client numbers served through program transformation and funding diversification. Helm received a Bachelor’s in English Literature with a minor in Spanish from Park University. As a graduate student at the University of Kansas, Helm did extensive research in Latin America on nongovernmental resources available to women in poverty. She completed a Master’s degree in Public Administration with an emphasis in Nonprofit Management from the University of Missouri–Kansas City.

Helm joined Literacy KC in September 2011 as a member of the Programs team, quickly climbing the ranks to become Literacy KC’s executive director in October 2015. She continues to dedicate her time and talent to the improvement of services, the diversification of programming, and to meeting the literacy-related needs of Kansas City’s adults and families through research-based, data-driven curriculum. Helm loves reading, running, DIY projects, and would like to own her own restaurant one day. She also does her best to keep up with her husband and three young sons, Griffin, Case, and baby Theo.

Alvin Brooks is seen all over the community as a staunch advocate of civil rights and anti-violence. The former police officer spends much of his time trying to solve issues related to urban crime. In 1977 Brooks founded the Ad Hoc Group Against Crime, when a group of concerned citizens came together to address the unsolved murders of nine African American women. Brooks led the organization in combating crime and violence in the Kansas City metropolitan area. The organization currently provides counseling and a 24-hour youth hotline service and helps honor victims of crime.

A true man of the people, Brooks’s role in Kansas City over the past half-century has led him down paths of public service, civil rights, and urban progress. He has served as a Kansas City police officer, councilman, and mayor pro tem. Brooks was also asked by President George H. W. Bush to serve on the President’s National Drug Advisory Council and was named one of America’s 1,000 Points of Light.

Glenn North serves up social commentary with a side of comic relief. As a poet and spoken-word artist, he uses humor to unify audiences, shedding light on everything from economics and racial inequality to what to do when you run out of baby formula and diapers. As Director of Education and Community at the Black Archives of Mid-America, he challenges people to be change agents in their communities. With a wit as sharp as his focus on social issues, he reaches audiences of all ages. North writes, performs, and organizes poetry workshops around the country. At Louder Than a Bomb, North helps promote the youth slam-poetry scene in KC, inspiring kids to lift themselves out of challenging situations and work toward brighter futures.

North is the author of City of Song, a collection of poems inspired by Kansas City’s rich jazz tradition and the triumphs and tragedies of the African American experience. He is a Cave Canem fellow, a Callaloo creative writing fellow, and a recipient of the Charlotte Street Generative Performing Artist Award and the Crystal Field Poetry Award. His work has appeared in Kansas City Voices, One Shot Deal, The Sixth Surface, Caper Literary Journal, Platte Valley Review, KC Studio, Cave Canem Anthology XII, The African American Review, and American Studies Journal. He collaborated with legendary jazz musician Bobby Watson on the critically acclaimed recording project Check Cashing Day, and was recently appointed Poet Laureate of the 18th & Vine Historic Jazz District.

The Kansas City Cultural Event includes a KC BBQ dinner, a history of jazz, blues, and bebop in Kansas City with Chuck Haddix, and live music with Vine Street Rumble. Additional registration required.

Chuck Haddix

Chuck Haddix is the director of the Marr Sound Archives, a collection of 380,000 historic sound recordings housed in the Miller Nichols Library at the University of Missouri–Kansas City. Haddix hosts the “Fish Fry,” a popular radio program featuring the finest in Americana, blues, soul, rhythm and blues, jumpin’ jive and zydeco on KCUR FM 89.3 (kcur.org), Kansas City’s public radio station. Haddix also teaches Kansas City jazz history at the Kansas City Art Institute.

Over the years, Haddix has contributed to a wide variety of theatrical, recording, video, and film projects, including “Cronkite Remembers” a biography of Walter Cronkite; Robert Altman’s Kansas City; and Merchant Ivory’s Mr. and Mrs. Bridge. His biography of Charlie Parker, Bird: The Life and Music of Charlie Parker, was published in 2013 by the University of Illinois Press.

Kent Rausch and Vine Street Rumble

Kent Rausch was Assistant Director of Bands in the Blue Springs School District until his retirement in 2011. He is Musical Director and founder of Kansas City’s Vine Street Rumble Jazz Orchestra, the only big band in the United States exclusively dedicated to honoring the legacy of the “golden era” of Kansas City Jazz and the incredible musicians who created it. Rausch is also a founding member of the New Red Onion Jazz Babies. Numerous local bands have performed his marching, concert, and jazz band arrangements. His concert band composition “Flights of Passage” was released by Wingert-Jones Publications in 2010.

Annual Business Meeting of the Conference on College Composition and Communication
Kansas City Marriott Downtown: Colonial Ballroom
8:00–9:15 a.m.

All members of and newcomers to CCCC are invited to attend and vote at the business meeting.

CCCC Chair: Carolyn Calhoun-Dillahunt, Yakima Valley College, WA
CCCC Associate Chair: Asao B. Inoue, University of Washington Tacoma
CCCC Assistant Chair: Vershawn Ashanti Young, University of Waterloo, Ontario, Canada
CCCC Immediate Past Chair: Linda Adler-Kassner, University of California, Santa Barbara
CCCC Secretary: Jessie L. Moore, Elon University, NC
CCCC Executive Secretary/Treasurer: Emily Kirkpatrick, NCTE, Urbana, IL
CCCC Parliamentarian: Rochelle Rodrigo, University of Arizona, Tucson
Established Rules for Conduct of the Annual Business Meeting

1. All voting members should be properly identified, and only members in good standing may vote in the business meeting.
2. A quorum of seventy-five members of CCCC in good standing is required for the transaction of business in this meeting.
3. Anyone wishing the floor should go to a microphone and give their name and institution when recognized by the chair.
4. If procedural rules are adopted by a majority vote of the members present, a two-thirds vote will be required to suspend or amend them.
5. Members may offer for discussion and action a sense-of-the-house motion, as specified in item 4 in the “Basic Rules for the Handling of Resolutions.” Such motions, if passed, will be broadcast to the members, not as an official CCCC statement, but as the wish of the majority of the members voting at the Annual Business Meeting. Sense-of-the-house motions can affect action by the Executive Committee, or another appropriate CCCC body, and can become the substance of a resolution at the next annual convention.

6. Sturgis’s Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure applies on all questions of procedure and parliamentary law not specified in the Constitution, Bylaws, or other rules adopted by CCCC.
7. The Parliamentarian interprets the rules on parliamentary procedures.
8. A secret ballot will be ordered by a motion to vote by secret ballot and an affirmative vote of at least ten members.

Procedural Rules Proposed for Adoption at the Annual Business Meeting

In discussion of resolutions and all other items of business except sense-of-the-house motions:

a. Three minutes will be allowed for each speaker each time.
b. No one may speak a second time on a subject until all who wish to speak have been heard.
c. The presiding officer will attempt to provide a balance in recognizing pro and con speakers. If there are no speakers opposing a motion under consideration, the chair may ask the house to move immediately to a vote in order to expedite the business.
d. Discussion will be limited to no more than fifteen minutes (not including discussion of amendments) on any main motion or resolution; this time may be extended in ten-minute increments by consent of the body.

e. Discussion of an amendment to a motion or resolution will be limited to no more than ten minutes; this time may be extended in six-minute increments by consent of the body.

f. Amendments to amendments will not be accepted, in order to avoid confusion.

In discussion of sense-of-the-house motions:

a. To be considered for deliberation, a sense-of-the-house motion must be prepared in writing, must not exceed 50 words, and must be submitted to the chair in three copies before the call for the adoption of the agenda at the beginning of the business meeting. (Brief prefatory statements in explanation of the motion are not part of the motion and need not be submitted in writing.)

b. A sense-of-the-house motion may not be amended, except for editorial changes acceptable to the mover.

c. Speakers on sense-of-the-house motions shall be limited to two minutes each, except by dispensation of the chair.

d. Discussion of sense-of-the-house motions shall be limited to ten minutes, except by dispensation of the chair.

Basic Rules for the Handling of Resolutions at the Annual Business Meeting

1. A call for resolutions will appear in the February issue of College Composition and Communication. Proposed resolutions received by the chair of the Resolutions Committee two weeks before the conference require the signature of only five conference members; however, additional signatures are welcome as a means of indicating the base of support for the resolution.

2. The function of the Resolutions Committee is to review all resolutions presented and to prepare resolutions of its own in areas in which it or the Executive Committee believes conference action is needed. Special attention will be given to including areas covered in sense-of-the-house motions passed at the last Annual Business Meeting. In reviewing resolutions, the Resolutions Committee is responsible for combining all resolutions that duplicate one another in substance and for editing all resolutions.

The Resolutions Committee will report all properly submitted resolutions to the Annual Business Meeting with a recommendation for action.

Resolutions that call for conference action in the areas in which the CCCC Constitution assigns authority to the officers or the Executive Committee will be clearly labeled as advisory to the officers or the Executive Committee.

Resolutions of appreciation may be prepared by the CCCC officers and may be presented by the Resolutions Committee.
The Resolutions Committee will hold an open meeting during the Special Interest Group time period to clarify and discuss these resolutions with concerned conference members. It is especially urgent that the authors of resolutions or their delegates come to this meeting. Although no new resolutions may be added at this time, members suggesting additional resolutions will be informed that they may introduce sense-of-the-house motions at the Annual Business Meeting in accordance with the rule given in item 4 below. The Resolutions Committee will also have a closed meeting after the open meeting to make such editorial and substantive changes as the deliberations of the open meeting may suggest.

3. As necessary, resolutions will be retyped so that complex changes will be incorporated into the copies of the resolutions distributed at the Annual Business Meeting.

   During the report of the Resolutions Committee at the Annual Business Meeting, one member of the Committee will read the “resolved” portion of each resolution and move its adoption. Adoption will require only a simple majority of members present. Action will be taken on each resolution before the next resolution is presented.

   The CCCC officers at their postconvention session will determine the dissemination of, and the action to be taken on, all resolutions adopted.

4. Members may offer sense-of-the-house motions for discussion and action. Such motions, if passed, will be announced to CCCC members, not as official CCCC statements, but as the will of the majority of members at the Annual Business Meeting. Sense-of-the-house motions can affect action by the Executive Committee, or by another appropriate CCCC body, as well as become the substance of a resolution at the next annual convention. In order to be considered, sense-of-the-house motions of no more than fifty words must be presented in writing (three copies) to the chair of the Annual Business Meeting before the adoption of the agenda.
In its inaugural year, Teacher to Teacher (T2T) offers CCCC participants a dynamic new professional development and networking opportunity. Designed as a series of practice-based conversations, T2T provides a space to celebrate teaching. Open to all convention attendees, T2T participants will be invited to learn about a range of activities, assignments, and methods from more than 40 teacher-presenters.

T2T presenters include full- and part-time faculty, graduate and undergraduate students, and aspiring educators as well as colleagues representing secondary, two-year, and four-year institutional homes. After a short welcome and introduction, attendees will select four twenty-minute table presentations per session. Attendees are welcome during any part of the morning and afternoon sessions or as their schedules allow. Table leaders will facilitate discussion following short presentations from two teachers. Visit the Teacher to Teacher website for a complete list of table topics: https://sites.google.com/udel.edu/teacher2teacher. Join us!

They Say with Readings, 4e
GERALD GRAFF
CATHY BIRKENSTEIN
The best-selling argument reader includes 40 readings on 5 issues that matter to students today. Half of the readings are new to this edition, including one entirely new chapter, “How Can We Bridge the Differences That Divide Us?” New online tutorials give students practice recognizing and using the rhetorical moves taught in both books. Both books are available as ebooks.

They Say / I Say: The Moves That Matter in Academic Writing, 4e
CATHY BIRKENSTEIN
The best-selling book that demystifies academic writing, shows students that writing is always part of a larger conversation and teaches them to weave the ideas of others in with their own. It’s a model that’s needed now more than ever. The Fourth Edition adds a new section on Disagreeing without Being Disagreeable, a new chapter on Entering Online Conversations, many new examples, and two new readings.

Find opportunity and value with CCCC

Take a closer look at the Conference on College Composition and Communication

CCC is the leading organization in writing studies, offering not only the largest meeting of writing specialists in the world every spring but also a relevant and strategic repository of resources, research, and networking channels to help you be your best.

• CCCC’s extensive grants and awards program provides opportunities to be recognized for your scholarship, to apply for funds for your next research project, or to receive travel support to learn from and with your colleagues.

• College Composition and Communication maintains a space for thoughtful examination of current issues in the field.

• CCCC sponsors advocacy efforts, inviting you to engage with legislative and regulatory issues that matter to you at the federal, state, and local levels.

There’s a lot we can do together as members of CCCC. The first step is simple. If you’re not a member, join CCCC by subscribing to College Composition and Communication today, and if you are a member, share the benefits of CCCC by telling a friend.

WHY WE ARE IN KANSAS CITY

We’re here because you’re here. As “All In” partners with the composition community we made the decision to attend this year’s conference as we typically do. But we know this isn’t a typical meeting. We want you to know that Bedford/St. Martin’s and all of Macmillan Learning are strongly committed to promoting inclusion, diversity, tolerance, and social justice. And as longtime educational publishers, our continuing support of composition and literature instructors extends to everyone.

Follow the hashtag #BSM4C18, to see our full range of events for this year’s conference.

And we encourage you to visit our community site for English instructors (community.macmillanlearning.com) to share your thoughts about teaching techniques and classroom issues.
BECAUSE EVERY STUDENT IS A WRITER WITH A VOICE
